

ABSTRACT

Information describing one or more items is published to multiple subscribers. A subsequent change to the information requested by one of the multiple subscribers (such as a change in the status of an item corresponding to the information) is communicated to each of subscribers to which the information was previously published.